

The "Russian miracle" is coming soon

02/18/2021

In the upcoming season for the first time on the Bulgarian market we will offer you an extract of peat - liquid humic manure, extracted from peat deposits of lowland type. Humic acids are growth stimulants, and their structure includes a whole range of biologically active substances.

Peat is an "alive" product and its ingredients are easily associated with the metabolism of the host organism, activating the absorption of nutrients. Humate easily interacts with the organism at the cellular level, reduces stress from pesticides, increases immunity and resistance to disease, drought and excessive humidity.

The humate activates the soil humus, once it hits the soil and, when used regularly, serves to restore the soil's natural fertility. The bacteria contained in it contribute to the activation of soil microorganisms and the decomposition of plant residues. At the same time increases the permeability and moisture retention.

When processing the seeds or planting material, higher germination, higher productivity, resistance to adverse conditions and improved product quality are achieved.
